A series by Charlie Ringer

This series is inspired by a commission request in 2024. A friend asked for a piece of art that had an eye as the central focus. Having made previous iterations of this concept, Charlie was able to pull from past work to create a new watercolor series focused on the eye as a subject. With bold, shimmering colors and strong lines, this series is a fun play on shapes and colors to create form.

Charlie Ringer

Artist, Creative Entrepreneur

Born and raised in Trenton, NJ, Charlie Ringer graduated from SHRHS in 2004 and from The Academy of Art in San Francisco in 2010. In high school, Charlie volunteered at the Lambertville Public Library. After graduating college, she worked in the service industry as a barista and chef as well as a caretaker for children and elderly, she traveled and lived in Alaska, Australia and other beautiful lands. Post an accident in 2016, she started working with watercolors a friend gifted her as a creative outlet that was easy to travel with. Her early work in this medium focused on portraits of fur friends by commission. After years of focusing on realism, her current series is playful with bold colors and lines. Charlie is always looking to create and share captivating images, ideas and concepts.
